will have to bring in £2,710,581. This is a large sum, and some people may doubt whether it will be obtained. The fourth quarter, however, is always the best, and an examination of the figures for 1887 shows that the receipts for the December quarter of that year exceeded those of the June quarter by about £400,000. On that basis the receipts for the last quarter of this year should amount to at least £2,800,000, which would give the Treasury a little more than the amount that he requires. This calculation is not affected by the loss of the taxation bills last session, since it is based upon the actual receipt of the earlier quarter. It is not certain, of course, that the returns for the second and fourth quarters will bear the same relation to each other in 1888 as they did in 1887, but the buoyant condition of the revenue will encourage the Treasury to take an optimistic view. There will be no harm in this provided that the Government is prudent and careful. It is extravagant expenditure, not the failure of revenue that has been at the bottom of all our financial troubles.

When Lord CARRINGTON visited a working man's suburb the other day, and, struck by the well-to-do and apparently contented condition of the inhabitants, contrasted it with the state of things in some of the over-crowded and poorest parts of London, he probably had little anticipation of the purpose to which his remarks would be applied. It was easy to see that his desire was to congratulate "the industrial classes" who, owing to the facilities afforded by the Government, were enabled to live away from the city, where pure air and better sanitation prevailed." Having served on a Royal Commission appointed to inquire into the housing of the working classes in England, it was not unnatural that his thoughts should be carried back to what he had himself seen in some of the back slums of the great metropolis, and that he should draw from his experience some lessons which the more fortunate people before him might well take to heart. The facts are not new; in substance they are familiar to the minds of most of us; but Mr. DAVID BUCHANAN, who thinks that they are "without a parallel," and says that "the bare reading of the speech curdles the blood with horror," concludes a characteristic letter upon the subject with the prayer that they may carry comfort to the souls of our freedmen. "To what base uses may we come at last."

The first question that suggests itself is, which are the facts that are to comfort the free-traders? There were two sets of facts referred to in the Governor's speech, the spectacle of prosperity and comfort at Leichhardt, and St. Pancras. It can hardly be fair to hold up the one and suppress the other. Mr. BUCHANAN says he is "thankful for the Governor's lurid picture;" but our free-traders may be more thankful for the one which is suggestive of sunshine and fresh air, and they have a right to their preference, for are not both pictures representative of what is to be seen under the rule of free trade? If the situation at St. Pancras under free trade had been contrasted by his Excellency with some golden vision of perfect happiness where protection prevails, the prayer of "comfort for the free-traders" might be more easily understood. But how are they to be comforted in the sense intended, by seeing how comparatively well off the people of Leichhardt are under the free-trade régime?

It was indeed a painful scene witnessed by Lord CARRINGTON in that small second-floor room in London, where, with broken window panes, no furniture, no bed, no fire, and no food, he found a woman with hardly any clothing on, and three children with if possible less. Would it comfort our protectionists to look upon another lurid picture, which we find in the New York Standard? "It was a meeting of citizens of Minneapolis, male and female, assembled to let the world know what sort of a chance Minneapolis, with her unrivalled natural advantages, and under the blessing of a high protective tariff, offers to the people who are willing to go to work and produce wealth by the sweat of their brows. Specimens of the products of Minneapolis were displayed upon the platform, and to each article was attached a placard showing the price paid for the labour of production. Here is a list of the articles exhibited, with the labour price of each—A shirt, 3d.; a pair of pantaloons, 6d.; a pair of overalls, 2d.; a blouse, 2d.; a blouse shirt, 1d. The assemblage, in short, was a mass meeting of Minneapolis working girls and their friends, and its object was to see if some way could not be devised by which the girls could get 4d. apiece for shirts, 7d. for pantaloons, and 3d. each for overalls, blouses, and blouse shirts, those being the prices paid by the more open-handed manufacturers of St. Paul." One of the speakers at the meeting, who had been much engaged in visitation amongst the poor, said "I have worked a great deal among girls who are known as outcasts, and I have found they became such because they could not earn decent wages. It was ruin or starve. . . . I visited one woman that I found in a dead faint over a sewing machine, and all I found in the house was a little corner that she had made into a gruel for her sick husband and two little children. She was starving herself for them; she was making shirts for 3d. each, and of course could not earn enough to live on. Let me tell you that girls who work out are frequently tempted to do wrong." Another spoke of a girl who died in hospital sick from overwork and in want, because under such conditions she chose to live an honest life. "Down the floor below was another girl, who had a hand-furnished room, and who had all her sewing and washing done, who told the first girl she was a fool for living as she was when she could have all the comforts of the city."

What does Mr. HENRY GRONIGER say upon this point? "In the highly protected industries of Massachusetts, official reports declare that the operative cannot get a living without the work of wife and children. In the highly protected industries of New Jersey many of the protected labourers are children whose parents are driven by their necessities to find employment for them by misrepresenting their age so as to evade the State law. In the highly protected industries of Pennsylvania, labourers, for whose sake, we are told, this high protection is imposed, are working for sixty-five cents a day, and half-clad women are feeding things, and we can afford to be hopeful of the future."

Germany is not finding the colonisation of Africa an easy task. Yesterday's cables gave us the information that native rebels at Zanzibar renounced allegiance to the German Emperor, on the ground that the SULTAN had no power to transfer that portion of the East Coast of Africa occupied by them to the German Empire. Both Germany and England have interests to protect in Zanzibar, but England seems to have gained to a greater degree the confidence of the strangely mixed population of the island, which is composed of East Africans and Arab tribes. Up to 1886-7 the difficulties experienced in colonising the country were many, and Germany, in particular, met with considerable opposition, not only from the natives, but from the ruler of Zanzibar. However, a joint commission of England, Germany, and France in that year proceeded to fix the boundaries, the dominions of the Seychelles or ruler of Zanzibar, and those of Germany and the native chiefs. England then acquired a protectorate over parts of the country. For many years the German interests have been represented by the East African Trading Company, and since 1886 the German territory has been administered by it. Germany formally took over her portion of the Zanzibar dominions on August 16 of this year, and it is to the trouble that sprang up then that the present strife is due. Who has not heard of the wretched existence which is dragged out by the poor in the crowded tenement houses of New York? Free trade is not the cause of the over-crowding and attendant evils in the metropolis of Great Britain: but protection, which is preached as the gospel to elevate mankind, has certainly failed to prevent their development in the United States to an extent which is painful to contemplate. It is easy to imagine how the sufferings of the poor in London would have been aggravated had a protectionist tariff increased the price of their scanty food. It is easy to understand how the spread of distress in the United States under protection has been checked by the steady extension of settlement over an immense territory, and by the influence of the unprotected industries which are rooted in the land. According to President CLEVELAND, whilst there are 17,382,000 of the population engaged in all kinds of industries, less than 3,000,000 are employed in industries that claim to be benefited by the high tariff. That is to say, with a population of more than 60,000,000, 57,000,000 are taxed for the profit of the few by whom the 3,000,000 are employed. It is not surprising under the circumstances that in a young country like the United States some of the evils generally seen in old countries have already developed themselves. We may be sure that they would have presented themselves even more conspicuously but for the safety-valves provided by an immense territory and the opportunity of providing without protection food for the European market. Before quitting this subject we may point to the fact that Mr. BLAINE, in preaching protection on his return from Europe to the United States, made a great point of the assertion that the people in the United States had millions more of money in the savings banks than the people in England. As our London correspondent pointed out the other day, English people have millions more in the savings banks than the Americans. Mr. BLAINE appears to have taken the figures relating to the ordinary savings banks, and to have overlooked the Post Office savings banks, in which most of the depositors invest their savings. There was much exultation amongst the protectionists here over Mr. BLAINE's "mare's nest." It is a curious coincidence that the same mistake was made by a "hot gospeller" here some time ago when comparing the conditions in New South Wales with those in Victoria. Must we conclude that this mode of dealing with facts is a part of the system?

We publish this morning the results of the Senior Examinations. The results are satisfactory so far as a comparison of percentages of successful candidates for the past three years is concerned. In 1886 there were 107 candidates examined, and 83 passed, or about 77 per cent. of the whole number. In 1887, out of 125, 87 succeeded, or 69 per cent.; and this year 110 have passed out of 140, or nearly 77 per cent. Last year we had to lament, perhaps unjustly, a falling off in the per centage of successful candidates. Of course it would be easy enough to draw deductions which would be entirely wrong from such figures as these, because so much depends on the nature of the papers set. With any considerable difference in the questions one way or another there would be in the nature of things a corresponding difference in the number of pupils that passed. But estimating the papers at the same value—and they are not likely to grow any less difficult—the showing this year is very good. The whole examining process, both at the examinations in the University and at the intermediate schools, has been arranged towards raising the standard, and if the case was closely studied, and all the information necessary was at hand, there is no doubt that this 77 per cent. and over of successful candidates would represent an increase in general merit. This year there are some variations from last year in the number that have passed in certain subjects. In 1887 more passed in English than in anything else, it is impossible to say what means may be found in this formation, but this being a new field Mr. Wilkinson thinks it should be prospected for the boy may at any time come upon a new seam.

This model in clay of the bust of Sir John Hay, M.C.M.G., President of the Legislative Council, just completed by Signor Simonetti, to whom the work was entrusted by the members of the Council who, as a body, desire to place a copy in marble in their chamber as a token of their appreciation of their president was on view yesterday at the chamber, and may be seen there until noon to-day. A number of gentlemen have inspected it, and have unanimously expressed their high approval of the work.

The following are copies of telegrams sent yesterday by Mr. S. W. Barnes, Inspector of Public Watering Places, Broken Hill, to the Chief Inspector Public Watering Places, Department of Mines, Sydney:—
"Broken Hill.—Visited lime quarries yesterday with Inspector Low, and found supply unsatisfactory; took samples from Jenkins', Welsh's, and Morde's quarries, which are forwarded to you by first express; if water after analysis proves suitable for human consumption we strongly recommend expenditure of say £100 in development, in order to ascertain actual supply: full report by letter: going to-day to survey office, Silverton, to ascertain exact position on parish map."—
"Broken Hill: Watercarriers held meeting Saturday night, and passed resolutions—firstly, to memorialise Minister that persons sinking soakage wells in Stephen's Creek and elsewhere be allowed one chain frontage as water right; secondly, requesting Government to open up large soakage shafts in Stephen's Creek for use of watercarriers. Memorial will be forwarded through me when prepared and signed, and I will forward my report thereto same time. Carter's unanimous in stating three months supply of drinking water for Broke Hill still is reserved portion of the creek."

The local Land Board met yesterday at the rooms of the Engineering Association of New South Wales, O'Connell-street. There were present Messrs. T. W. Harriott (chairman), F. A. H. Eagar, and H. Eagar. Evidence was taken in the following cases: Application of A. Hutchinson for 24 perches and 18d. perches at Johnston's Bay; A. N. Warner, 6 perches Point Piper; W. R. Hall, 22d. perches, Elizabeth Bay; G. T. Boar, 9d. perches, Blackwattle Bay; F. H. Dangler, 20 perches, Elizabeth Bay. Evidence was also heard in the case of A. W. Harrison, who applied for a special lease of 36d. perches at Manly, for the purpose of erecting a switchback railway. In the cases of the application of the representatives of the late John Carr, for special purchase of 12d. perches at Lavender Bay (adjourned case), and of W. M. F. Ford, for 5d. perches at Berry's Bay, evidence was only partly taken. The board will meet again at 10.30 this morning.

Miss ALICE CORNWELL, a lady well known in mining circles in Victoria, has arrived in New South Wales to work the Schenckel's electric light. This light, it may be mentioned, is not intended to supersede gas, but rather to be used in conjunction with it. A company with a similar object, known as the Schenckel Electric Light and Power Company, has been formed in Melbourne; and at the first meeting held a few days ago, there were 104 members present, representing 40,000 shares.

The bazaar in connection with St. Anne's Church, Rushfield, came to a successful conclusion on Saturday night. On Friday the attendance was comparatively small, but on Saturday the room was crowded. On Friday evening an excellent concert was given, at which the following ladies and gentlemen gave their assistance:—Miss Jones, Miss Hayley, Miss Mountain, Miss Lambert, Mr. Wilkinson, Mr. T. Wilkinson, Mr. Nibbs, Mr. L. Robertson, Mr. Broughton, and Mr. Felton. The lumineum was displayed with excellent effect, and the performances, many of whom were quite young children, did their part to perfection. Just before the last tableau was exhibited, the Rev. Canon Kemmis, on behalf of the incumbents, addressed a few words to those assembled. He apologized for the absence of the incumbent, who had to leave to take his (Canon Kemmis') duty at Darling Point. He expressed the warm thanks of those responsible for the bazaar, to Mrs. Stanton, Mr. Broughton, and Mr. Felton, as well as to the Rev. Arthur Bartlett, and the Burwood people generally, for their sympathy and most generous support. On Sunday the pulpit, morning and evening, at St. Anne's, Strathfield, was occupied by the Rev. Canon Kemmis.

The Primitive Methodist Bassar at Dulwich Hill was continued in the Athenaeum Hall on Saturday, and a good business was done by the ladies in charge of the various stalls. The attendance was large, and the takings were more than on previous evenings. The bazaar closed about 10 o'clock.

We are requested to state that the registration of dogs for the central division of the metropolitan police district will be carried on after Tuesday at the temporary Central Police Court offices, Oddfellows' Hall, Caversham-street.

The monthly meeting of the Australian Economic Association will be held to-night, when a paper by Mr. A. Forsyth will be read, entitled "The relations of labour and capital."

The following is the order of musical service at St. Andrew's Cathedral this afternoon, 4.30 p.m.:—Magnificat, Bridge, in D; Nunc Dimittis,bridge, in D; Anthem, "Incline Thine ear to me" (Himmel).

The following is the report of the Sydney Hospital for week ended September 29, 1888:—Admitted, 37 males, 21 females; deceased, 10 males, 10 females; total, 46; died, 8 males, total 8; remaining, 115 males, 68 females, total 183; casualties treated, but not admitted, 69.

A BRIDGED PROSPECTUS VICTOR AND SIR WILLIAM DON UNITED
 TIN-MINING COMPANY
 (No Liability).
 near TINGHA, NEW ENGLAND, NEW SOUTH WALES.

CAPITAL, £70,000 in 70,000 SHARES of £1 EACH, of which £10,000 is paid up, and £6000 to be paid by the vendors together with £6000 in cash, in partial payment of the amounts expended by them upon the property. The remaining 60,000 shares are offered at the public on the following terms:—5000 shares will be allotted with first Month's Call of £6 per share, if necessary, commencing one month after allotment. As the property has been developed to a considerable extent, and the present value of the property is £100,000, it is not expected that any further calls will be required.

From the aforesaid report it will be seen that large deposits of sand, silt and sandstone, are present in the property, so that immediate and continuous dividends should follow on the commencement of work by the company.

The Company will be considered formed when 20,000 Shares have been applied for.

This Society is the only Australian Life Office which declares a BONUS EVERY YEAR.

THE PRINCIPAL SOURCE OF PROFIT ARE—the high rate of interest on the premiums accumulated, tandem to the annual income; and the extremely favourable rate of mortality which MEMBERS MAY BORROW on their Policies to the extent of 100% of the Surrender Value.

Interest are not forfeited so long as the Surrender Value is sufficient to meet the Premiums.

BONUSES WEST after Policies have been five years in force.

NEW BUSINESS OF 1887:
 9,853 Policies, assuring £3,734,545, with new Premiums of £121,314.

Policies surplus of the year 1887: £35,345.

Policyholders in force: 45,400. Total about 400 acres have been taken from which 150 tons of tin have been obtained. About 40 truck shafts have been sunk in different places, and the last one was 40 ft. deep, 4 ft. wide, and 4 ft. thick, and carrying from 40 ft. to 100 ft. tin to the ton. A large dam has been constructed giving abundance of water for all purposes, and there is more than twice as much as there is per foot, and there is an ample supply of timber.

The machinery and plant consists of two Tangy engines and two condensing engines, each developing 100 horse-power. By far the greater part of the power is used in pumping water, and there is no mill or factory. The further expenditure of about £30,000 the mine will, when fully worked, yield 300 tons of wash-gold per day, giving the following results:—

Output per ton = 15,000 lbs. of tin at 6d per lb. £3000 0 0

Total cost of winning and treating = £600 0 0

Total profit per day = £451 16 0

Or per annum = £161,720 0 0

In addition to the exceptionally valuable alluvial deposits, a large number of rich tin-bearing ore bodies have been discovered, and the work of extracting the tin from these bodies to supply the world is only about 70,000 tons. That the sources of supply where an increasing demand is being gradually reduced, and the price of tin is likely to rise, is evident. The cost of tin during the last 10 years, by about £20 per ton, there can be no doubt that the property offers a safe investment to capitalists with a good record.
